FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTS

- Global equities rose in April in US dollar terms, with emerging markets outperforming their developed counterparts. The US Federal Reserve appeared to take a cautious approach towards an interest rate hike, as economic activity and the labour market weakened unexpectedly.
- Eurozone inflation stabilised in April, ending months of falling prices. Meanwhile, Greece appeared no closer to reaching a deal with its European creditors to avoid an imminent default.
- Brazilian equities rebounded, outperforming the broader emerging markets asset class. The stockmarket was buoyed by hopes that the country could avoid a credit-rating downgrade on the back of government spending cuts, as well as receding concerns of a debt default at state oil company Petrobras.
- Elsewhere, the Chinese central bank reduced the reserve requirement ratio by 1%, the deepest cut since 2008. Its move followed a deceleration in first-quarter GDP growth from 7.3% to 7%; industrial production, fixed investments and retail sales for March were also weaker than expected.
- There were no major changes to the portfolio in April.
