FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTS

In May 2016, the Fund was up 4.47%, outperforming the benchmark by 0.59%. We are overweight in Hong Kong, Indonesia and Philippines, and underweight in China, Korea and Malaysia. Sector-wise, we are overweight in Telecommunications, Financials and Consumer Services and underweight in Oil & Gas, Technology, Industrials, Basic Materials and Utilities. Year-to-date, the Fund is down 4.54%, underperforming the benchmark by 1.70%.

Asian equity markets lost 1.6% in United States Dollar terms in May, with India and Philippines bucking the trend rising 3.2% and 4.0% respectively. A slew of stronger-than-expected United States economic data led to expectations that the US Federal Reserve would raise interest rates before September. This caused Asian currencies to weaken and Asian bond yields to rise. Asian equities also came under pressure as foreign funds sold more than US$3 billion in equities during the month. Earnings growth expectations continue to be cut with consensus now predicting just 3.1% and 10.9% growth for 2016 and 2017 respectively. With oil and energy prices showing signs of stabilization, there should be less downward pressure on earnings going into 2H16.

Our research efforts continue to be on companies and sectors with above-market growth rates. With the election of pro-growth pro-reform leaders in Indonesia, India and the Philippines over the past year, we expect infrastructure spending to spearhead the region's economic development. We are also increasing our exposure to stocks which would benefit from the transformation of our industrial economy into a digital one.
